SHOT VETERAN HORSE HITS PRIMETIME TV

Poncho and Laurie Shelton at the filming of AFTH this spring

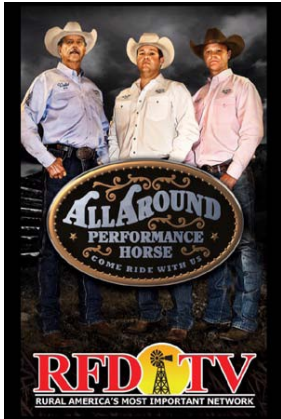

When Laurie Shelton bought a horse the night before attending her first SHOT show, she had no idea what future was in store for her or her 4 year-old quarter horse Ima Little Tequila ("Poncho"). Their first show was not exactly successful, but Shelton was hooked on the concept of 'Ride A Better Horse' - though she claims 'Become A Better Rider' might have been a more appropriate description.

The pair attended every SHOT clinic and show for two years, working hard for small improvements and learning from clinicians, contestants, and judges. By year two they finished with a reserve champion title in the Non Pro division, and by year three they were year-end champions. In 2009, the pair earned the SHOT Superior Stock Horse Merit Award. As they tested the waters in other associations, it was clear that the SHOT program had prepared them to tackle just about any event - earning titles in AQHA ranch versatility, American Competitive Trail, and even a 2010 World Championship title in the Extreme Cowboy Race Association.

Now this true SHOT-grown duo will make a primetime performance on HRTV's America's Favorite Trail horse. Filmed this spring, the competition features 100 riders encountering a variety of trail situations, with the winners determined by email vote. Viewers can see the two in action on November 15 at 7pm either on TV or online at ACTHA.TV. Voting for each episode is open for 48 hours, and only 1 vote per email is allowed. Winners of each episode earn a spot in the finals, where they will compete for the title of America's Favorite Trail Horse. No horse better represents the mission of SHOT than Poncho - so make a little time to send your vote his way!

SPONSOR SPOTLIGHT: DENNIS MORELAND

“Function over fashion”. These three words represent the core of what Dennis Moreland Tack is all about. As a young cowboy on the Haythorn Ranch in the 70’s Moreland became interested in building tack, mostly out of necessity – the local saddle maker, having been asked one too many times to build gear to Dennis’s specs, finally said “make it yourself”. Dennis did just that, stepping into a trade that has kept him busy for over 30 years.

With one foot in the tack business and the other foot planted firmly in a stirrup, Dennis puts more than just great craftsmanship into his pieces – each stitch of leather and turn of steel also carries decades of experience in the saddle. Dennis knows what it means to really use gear every day, and when you are counting on that gear for work or performance, quality and function are everything.

A successful competitor in NCHA, AQHA, SHOT, and NRCHA, he has seen many trends come and go, leaving his tack to stand the test of time. “Quality is no accident” Moreland explains, “you don’t accidentally use the best leather and best buckles available”. That philosophy is what keeps horsemen familiar with his gear coming back again and again.

Popular items from DMTack.com include this style of loping hackamore

It’s no accident to find Dennis at most SHOT shows – if he isn’t competing, then you’ll find him helping somewhere – he’s been spotted scribing, setting up trail, and even helping folks get their horses warmed up. His generosity does not end there – for years Dennis Moreland Tack has been a wonderful SHOT sponsor – providing custom spurs, bits, and bridles to SHOT competitors – plus special awards dedicated to our youth contestants. Knowing our sponsors on a personal level is a hallmark of SHOT – but having sponsors of such personal and professional caliber is what makes our association truly unique.

Dennis builds custom bits and keeps a supply of his popular styles in stock
